Response 01

Hey Sam, fantastic post! Your essay presents a well-structured comparison between the rich and the famous, focusing effectively on privacy, personal freedom, and interpersonal relationships. The flow between paragraphs is mostly smooth, with each section building logically on the last. However, to enhance coherence, consider interlinking these themes more explicitly to show how they influence each other across different aspects of life.

The thesis statement succinctly captures the essence of your comparison. Still, it could be strengthened by explicitly mentioning the core aspects you discuss—privacy, personal freedom, and interpersonal relationships—in the thesis to prepare the reader for what will be specifically compared.

For my essay and as a suggestion for your revision, I recommend a thorough editing phase where we both could focus on refining our thesis statements and ensuring each paragraph transitions smoothly into the next. This enhances readability and ensures that our main points support our thesis throughout the essay.
